For Your Safety and Enjoyment KNOW THESE SIGNS

For Warmup and New Skiers. Mostly level to gently rolling terrain. No sharp curves or steep slopes. Under most conditions, this can be skied without need to "herringbone" or "hemingbone".

For Reassurance that you are on a safe trail. Arrows may be used on these markers to indicate the established skiing direction on 1-way trails.

For Advanced Beginners and Experienced Skiers. More rolling and hilly. Longer and steeper slopes than "easiest" trails. May be necessary to "herringbone" on short steep slopes.

Be Alert Reduce Speed. Signals steep hills, road crossings, etc. Watch for approaching skiers or vehicles.

For Vigorous, Experienced Skiers Who Seek a Challenge. Quite hilly. Usually part of longer loops. Longer and steeper slopes than "difficult" trails. Often necessary to "herringbone" and/or sidestep.

Stay Off Trail! Unsafe trail closed due to insufficient snow, down trees or other hazards.

Snowplowing and/or stop limits may be necessary for control on some downhill portions of "more difficult" and "most difficult" trails.

- Watch for other signs with specific messages.
- Signed distances are in either miles or kilometers. 1 mi = approx. 0.8 mi. 1 km = approx. 1.6 km.
- Caution - Signs are sometimes stolen or damaged. Some trails may be partially or completely unsigned.

For a safe and enjoyable skiing experience, match trail difficulty and length of trip to your physical condition and ability.
